There is a shift in the Health and Life Sciences industry, with today's leaders found at all stages of their careers. Leading this change are women, who are transforming the health and life sciences industry through their revolutionary ideas, powerful innovations, and determination to develop inclusive and diverse environments of leadership. The Women in Health and Life Sciences Summit, brought to you by Watermark and Nevro, is the first of its kind focused on learning and networking opportunities for the advancement of women leaders.

AGENDA HIGHLIGHTS

Join women and men of all levels from senior executives to emerging leaders, to share experiences with insightful and powerful keynotes, dynamically engaging panels, and interactive workshops focused on developing practical leadership skills, which will impact any individual's executive presence and company's advancement in the health and life sciences industry.
